Copenhagen, July 11.—Count Von Bernstorff, former German ambassador at Washington, is mentioned in the Reichstag as a candidate to succeed Foreign Minister Zimmermann in case of his retirement. The name of Dr. W. S. Wolf, colonial secretary, also mentioned.

Universal Equal Suffrage.
The socialist organ, Vorwaerts, copies of which have just been received here, devotes black face type to positive reports in the Reichstag that the Prussian government decided to introduce a bill in the diet for universal equal suffrage this autumn, without waiting for peace.

The Vorwaerts also announces that the Prussian minister of the interior, Von Lobell, in an audience with the emperor Monday, recommended the quickest possible execution of internal reform.

Harden's Paper Suppressed.

Lie Zunkert, Mammilion, Harden's publication, has been suppressed for the remainder of the war, according to the Berlin Tagblatt. Herr Harden has been mobilized under the auxiliary civil service law, and will be employed as a military clerk. The government some time ago had planned to take this action but lacked the courage.

Lie Zunkert was first temporarily suppressed a few days ago because of its criticism of the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung's statement of the German-Hoffman affair, which resulted in the resignation of Dr. Hoffmann as a Swiss federal councillor, and the expulsion of Robert Grimm, the Swiss international socialist, from Russia, after the exposure of the recent peace maneuver, which failed.

The Zunkert ridiculed the newspaper's humanitarian pose and said the aim of Germany's enemies were, among other things, the creation of a situation which would remove the decision of peace or war from the will of one mortal, and place it in the hands of the committee.

Withholds Information.

Amsterdam, July 11.—Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg declared yesterday to make known to the Reichstag main committee the proceedings in the crown council of Monday regarding which there is much speculation within and without Germany. The committee then decided to adjourn. These events are described as follows in a semi-official statement issued yesterday in Berlin.

The main committee of the Reichstag met at nine o'clock this morning. Friedrich Ebert (socialist leader) requested the chancellor, who was present, to give information in regard to what had taken place in the crown council yesterday, on the ground that knowledge of what took place there was necessary for further debate. The chancellor, confirming the fact that the crown council had held a meeting, said he was unable as yet to make a statement in regard to the results of the deliberations. He said that the crown council had decided to adjourn.

Germany's Aims.
Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, in his address at yesterday's secret meeting of the main committee of the Reichstag, said that Germany's aim was to win, and will win this war if she but holds out and stands firm.

We are in this war to finish and we will not let down our arms until complete victory is won. Peace without annexation is not acceptable to Germany. It is impossible and dangerous. I cannot declare terms now. Germany must fight to the last gasp.

We must continue the war with our whole energies. I do not deny that we have great difficulties to overcome, but so also have our enemies. We shall see whether their difficulties or ours are greater. I am sure we can win if we hold out, and we must fight to achieve victory.

Nothing was further from my intention than to cling to my post, but now it is a question of protecting the fatherland from injury, and for this reason I cannot leave my post until our objects have been accomplished.

The chancellor defended the government's policy in Poland and vigorously attacking its opponents' malicious policies.

Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg went on to say that "the government is unable to accept socialist proposals, and because they proved unsuccessful in Russia."

Account Exaggerated.
Berlin, July 11.—Fuller reports of the meeting of the main committee of the Reichstag say that when Von Bethmann-Hollweg was asked for the result of the meeting of the crown council, he replied:

"Have read this morning's report in the press, which does credit to the imagination of the writer.

There is no disturbance. Germany's political difficulties are regarded by officials here as due largely to internal problems, and probably of a temporary nature, only.

Foreign Secretary Zimmermann, Minister of Finance Helfferich, and even Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg himself, would be considered largely a surface movement for not until the great army staff itself is reached, it is believed, will the real crust of German militarism be broken.

Clear Lake Farm Aid
Is Fined For Fishing
Without State Permit

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones' Lincoln Center annex at Clear Lake breaks into print again today. Today's feature has nothing to do with peace stripes attached to the American flag or anything similar, but it is as follows:

Wallace Kirkland, a Y. M. C. A. man and an attendant at the Clear Lake farm, was arrested yesterday by Conservation Warden William P. Mason on the charge of fishing in Wisconsin waters without a state license. Kirkland lives without Wisconsin and as the state law demands that such arrests be made by the state police, he was taken to the state prison at Joliet, Ill. He was brought before Municipal Judge H. L. Maxwell and fined $25 and costs. It was brought out at the time that Kirkland was a British subject.

only when it was desired to negotiate a way out of the situation.

Diplomat as Puppets.

American officials agree with allied diplomats here that many of the German officials who figure so largely in the news are in fact puppets, being pulled across the stage as a blind to the German people. Their rise or fall, they say, has little significance on Germany's military or foreign policy. Nevertheless, it is agreed that there is an enormous amount of unrest in Germany today which in all probability will lead to a general internal change in the personnel of the government and in reform of obvious abuses of the German government system.

The German peace party is very active and the general opposition to the unrepresentative form of government has centered attention on the extreme powers of the Junkers and pan-Germans, who are being increasingly responsible for the ills of the country.

Fundamental internal reform in Germany is felt here to be only a matter of time. Those who have most recently been in Germany say that reform is absolutely certain the moment the war is over, and the chances greatly favor initial steps being taken even during hostilities.

Austria's Influence Felt.

Austria's influence is becoming more and more consistent toward a liberal peace. Austria is said to be treated most contemptuously by German officials in the given consideration only as the unavoidable weak link in the chain. Nevertheless it is known she would make peace tomorrow if possible, and her activity in consultation with German statesmen and political leaders, is undoubtedly causing worry at German headquarters.

Bombardment Shakes London.

GREEN BAY GUARDS
OFFER SELF TO STATE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Green Bay, July 11.—Green Bay's recently organized home guard company, by a vote of its officers, today has decided to become a militia company at the service of the state and adjutant general. It is believed this is the first independent home guard to offer its services to the state to take the place of the local national guard. The company is composed of 120 men in the organization and the enrollment will be increased to 150 within a short time.

The uniforms and rifles will be furnished by the state to the company.

New York, July 11.—Liberty bonds sold at 99 49-50 at stock exchange today, one lot at 10,000 going at that price. This is the first time that the issue has dropped below par since the day it was first put on the market. The Stock Exchange authorities recently announced they favored free and unrestricted sales and the present recession representing twenty cents on $1000 is attributed to reports of further liberty loans next fall and spring.

IS THE CROWN PRINCE DIVINE? WELL,
ANYWAY, HE CAN'T BEAT THE FRENCH

German Crown Prince and staff on Aisne front, June 11, 1917.

Some doubts must be arising in the minds of the German people as to whether their petted crown prince really is divine. The idea has prevailed in Germany that the Kaiser is in partnership with God and that the crown prince would succeed his father in the partnership on the latter's death. However, Frederick Wilhelm hasn't won a battle since he started the Verdun offensive almost a year and a half ago. He has recently met with fresh reverses on the Aisne, where this picture was taken last month.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Shreveport, La., July 11.—In their efforts to check migration of negro labor to the north and east, planters of this section are being actively assisted by Sheriff P. H. Hughes, and Police Chief J. J. Gray who late today blocked plans for the exportation of about two hundred negroes to Pittsburg.

Fred Rankin Stier, who claims to be a special agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, assisted by a local agency, recruited the negroes who were boarding railroad coaches when officers arrived and warned the agents if they shipped negroes they would be arrested under the Louisiana law prohibiting enticing of labor.

Stier abandoned his plan and the negroes returned home.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Minneapolis, July 11.—Sorrow was cast over the convention of the National Editorial Association today by the death last night of the organization's founder, Colonel Benjamin B. Herbert of Chicago, editor of the National Printers' Journal. Colonel Herbert was seized with an attack of heart trouble Monday night.

Resolutions expressing sorrow of the delegates were adopted and part of the set program for the day was called off. The news print situation came in for further discussion and delegates were asked to urge their congresses for legislation authorizing the federal trade commission to take over and operate American mills, and thus reduce prices. A resolution favoring such legislation was unanimously adopted.

STATE "SPEED TRAPS"
RILE DULUTH AUTO MEN

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Duluth, Minn., July 11.—That the automobile route through Wisconsin as drawn by the Duluth Automobile association may be changed, is an assertion made by Dr. J. D. P. of the alleged injustices practiced upon motorists in several Wisconsin towns. The alleged cause of this is found, Dr. P. claims, in unfair arrests at Appleton, Wis., and on the stretch between Marinette and Iron Mountain. He claims on the outskirts of Appleton motorists were arrested and taken to the state prison, where they were kept for an hour, and invariably fined $35. Similar complaints, the doctor says, have been received from other territory on the route.

"If this continues," he said, "we demand justice and courteous treatment or we will withdraw automobile trade from those towns."

TWIN, ALIKE AS PEAS
ENLIST WITH MARINES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Chicago, July 1.—Ray Edwin and Roy Edmund Stearns, twins of Aurora, Ill., enlisted in the marine corps here today. They are twenty-three years old, alike in stature, facial features and manner, and in their desire to serve the nation.

Lieutenant Frederick Kensel, who swore them into the service, and Dr. R. H. Nichols, who examined the twins, were puzzled to tell one from the other. The surgeon finally made Ray, or perhaps it was Roy, stand at one side of the room while his brother was being examined at the other side. There will be some fun at training camp when those two get there, said the lieutenant. "They look as alike as two peas."

HARD COAL SHIPMENT OF JUNE IS RECORD

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Philadelphia, July 11.—The shipments of hard coal for June, according to reports to the anthracite bureau of information, established a new record for any month in the history of the industry, the bureau announced today. The statement says:

"The railroad shipments amounts to 7,049,037 tons, an increase over the preceding month of 131,512 tons. This is the first time in the history of anthracite mining that the difference exceeded 7,000,000 tons.

"Compared with July last year, the shipments last month showed an increase of 1,418,002 tons. The total for the first six months this year amounted to 37,667,093 tons, against 33,421,665 tons in 1916.

"This record, made in spite of a pronounced shortage of labor, exceeds the most optimistic anticipation and more than keeps the promise made by the operators to the federal trade commission that the production of 1917 would be increased over 1916, and that the public requirements would be supplied."

ENGLISH SPECULATE:
WILL U. S. ARMY MEN
TAKE ENGLISH WIVES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Liverpool, July 11.—Speculating editorially on whether the men of the American army will marry English wives to an appreciable extent, the Liverpool Post says:

"Will American men marry here? Why wonder at the coming of the American army will have any effect upon the matrimonial prospects of our girls. For some reason the men of the new world have hitherto never been regarded as eligible to take brides from the Old, and even the theory that this is because it has not been the way of the American man to cross the Atlantic, though it is not correct, is noticeable in our midst for the past three years, are not nearly as fond of marrying into this country as are, for example, the Australians.

"Few of the young men from Australia seem to want to return home without English brides, but the Canadians either are or show a disposition to remain single.

"Still, there is no need for the girls to despair yet, and if some of them do not spend their lives as matrons in the United States we shall be surprised. Certainly it will not be their fault, as they show a most amiable desire to like any of the American naval and military and medical men they have seen, although some of them are so curiously unlike our own men."

Petrograd, July 11.—According to a telegram received from the general staff, the pursuit of the enemy in Galicia continues. The capture of Halicz, strategic key to Lemberg, is confirmed, the Russians taking prisoners and more than thirty guns.

The Russians have reached the Posiecz-Kosacz-Kosacz line. In the fighting between Sunday and Tuesday, in the direction of Dolina, the Russians took more than 10,000 prisoners and eighty guns.

Petrograd, July 11.—In addition to recapturing Halicz the Russians took 2,000 prisoners and thirty guns. They also advanced westward to the left bank of the Lomnica river, and pressed forward on the Bogorodchan-Zolozin front. These announcements were made by the war office today.

New Russian Hero.
Russia is ringing with the name of the latest general of the war, Lieutenant General L. B. Korniloff, victor of Galicia.

From log cabin to general was the course of his career. Born forty-six years ago, son of a needy-stricken Karalinsk Cossack in western Siberia, who later married a large family on a pitman's wage as the village clerk, he early began rough work.

When barely thirteen, by his own exertion, he qualified to enter the Siberian cadet corps. Largely composed of sons of local magnates. Thanks again to his own efforts, he gained free training at the Michailovsk artillery school, where his amazing mathematical faculties brought approval from the authorities, though he was suspected, with reason, of being a secret revolutionary.

Next, served in Japan. In the guards, and being penniless he was obliged to serve in Turkish. In the Japanese war, as colonel, he covered the retreat of the Japanese army of General Kuropatkin's shattered armies with such skill that he was given the St. George cross.

He speaks not only all the European languages but also Persian, Chinese and every dialect of central Asia.

ANTI-JAP SENTIMENT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Tokio, July 11.—That the anti-Japanese sentiment in the United States is not as strong as is believed in Japan is the opinion of Dr. Wataro Okada, professor of medicine at the Imperial university, who recently returned from a tour to America. The professor said that the Japanese were welcomed in the United States, generally speaking.

It was true that among the labor element in the west, the situation was different, but he found that the majority of the American people do not subscribe to the anti-Japanese agitation in western states. In a statement he even suggested medical cooperation between Americans and Japanese because Americans were recognizing that the Japanese possess certain excellent qualities in medical science.

Several declared they had been working near Jerome on Friday. One asserted he had been taken from his home four hours after his wife gave birth to a child.

Always doing and never smiling leaves room for some doubt; selfishness makes men serious, smile and cheer your brother.

HARTIN MUST FACE CHARGE OF KILLING EX-CONVICT VICTIM

Held Without Bail by Judge Clark at Beloit Yesterday—Defense's Dismissal Motion Overruled.

Fred Hartin was held without bail to the October term of the Rock county circuit court on the charge of having murdered H. A. Krause, a river shacker across from Bassford's bathing beach last November in a preliminary examination which lasted but two hours in Beloit municipal court yesterday.

Nearly 200 spectators who crowded into the municipal court room expecting thrills must have been disappointed, for the short court session embodied little of the drama.

The witnesses told the same stories of circumstantial evidence that were related at the coroner's inquest and which have been published before in connection with the crime.

Harting, with his handcuffs off, for there were a half dozen officers in the room, sat in his chair next to Defense Counsel T. D. Woodley of Beloit, with an air of cool unconcern. Once he smiled at some bit of testimony, and most of the time calmly looked the witnesses squarely in the eye.

Motion is Denied. When the state moved that the defendant be held to trial, Attorney Woodley promptly made a counter motion that the prisoner be dismissed, declaring that "not one iota of evidence has been produced here to prove that he is guilty of the murder or had anything to do with it."

Harting and Krause were traced from Waupun as far as this city in their way to the river where they met. Hartin met his former convict friend when the latter was released from Waupun, by the testimony of R. M. Cole, deputy penitentiary warden, G. A. George, Northwestern brakeman, who directed them as to train connections to Beloit from Janesville.

Shot After Death. Dr. H. O. Delaney, Beloit, as a result of the post mortem examination he and Dr. W. W. Crockett performed on the body of Krause at the Beloit morgue, related the order in which the bullet wounds were inflicted.

Evidence of hemorrhage indicated, he said, that the wounds in each arm, and one in the abdomen, were inflicted before death, one through the heart and lungs, and one through the chest while two bullets evidently were fired into the brain after death.

Fairbert Tells Story. Henry Fairbert and Police Chief Quinlan told how they found the body in the river, where the slayer had heaped bags of cement and rocks upon it to hold it down. Fairbert saw the flash and heard the reports of three shots fired across the river, he said. When he went to investigate the next morning and found blood, he declared he thought at first hunters had been shooting geese. But the disarranged state of the cabin and his mind on the day.

When he left work in Beloit and went to the crime scene in the afternoon, he found the body in the river. "Horace" Moffit, another uncle of Hartin, related the murder story this morning following the crime, when Hartin did not go to work as usual. His uncle learning that the police wanted him, telephoned and asked for him to come to the river.

At Beloit, so as to avert the arrest scene at his home, where his wife was ill. Hartin left, but instead of going to the factory made his getaway into the country. Police Captain J. B. McGee told how they tracked the fugitive as far as Sharon, where trace was lost of him after he boarded a train.

Aged Father Present. Hartin's aged father and his brother from Evansville, in addition to the Beloit relatives, were in the court room. The prisoner, after his wrists had been shackled when court adjourned, stopped momentarily to shake hands with his aunt, Mrs. Merton Moffit, and other relatives, some of whom he had not seen since his capture.

WILL HOLD CANNING DISPLAYS AT FAIRS

Defense Council Plans Demonstrations to Acquaint Women With Food Conservation Methods.

At the recent meeting of the executive committee of the Rock County Council of Defense, action was taken authorizing the canning demonstrations at the various fairs and community picnics which will be held in the county during August.

The canning demonstrations will be shown at the Rock county fair at Edgerton, at the Janesville fair, at the South Beloit fair and at the T. and A. B. society's annual picnic at Edgerton.

The defense council is anxious to thoroughly acquaint the women of the county with the most modern methods of preserving, canning, drying and storing fruits and vegetables so that the excess food supply of the county may be conserved to the fullest extent.

"It is doubtful whether the women of the county fully realize the importance of this work," said F. Starr, secretary of the defense board. "We are anxious to enforce upon them the utmost necessity of saving surplus vegetables and fruits and we will carry on an active campaign for a month or six weeks."

The defense council has voted to pay the expenses of four or five women who will be selected by Mrs. Anderson of Edgerton, president of the women's council of defense, to attend the course in canning which is being given by the home economics department of the state college of agriculture at Madison from July 15 to 22.

Two days will be all the time needed to acquire the full instruction. The women who take this course will then be employed at the canning demonstrations throughout the county.

W. E. Larson, State Inspector of Rural Schools, Makes Addresses at County Board Convention.

Well over four hundred people, members of the various school boards throughout the county, and rural teachers gathered in the high school building for the annual county school board convention.

Both morning and afternoon sessions were included in the program which is intended primarily to give the rural school board members a few words of advice that the school system throughout the entire county may be more nearly standardized and the efficiency universally increased.

W. E. Larson, state inspector of rural schools, was the principal speaker of the day. He spoke this morning on the new school laws recently enacted by the legislature and the changes which they would effect in the county system.

In the afternoon he again addressed the board members. Superintendent of Schools Rosetta Blazer of Clinton addressed the delegates on the subject, "What is wrong with our schools, and how can we improve them?"

The convention will decide the approximate date for the adjournment late this afternoon.

Club Day Program. Tuesday was Club Day at the Country Club. There was a golf game in which the old men were matched against the young men. They played for the supper. The young men won the game. In the afternoon the prizes were won by Mrs. Sue Wilcox and Mrs. Charles Wild.

In the evening music and informal dancing was enjoyed. Misses Manilla Powers who has just returned from her musical studies in Chicago gave the program. Among her numbers were a "Creole Love Song," "He Met Her On the Street," "By the Waters of Minnetonka," and "A Mammy Song."

Miss Powers voice shows much cultivation, her enunciation is perfect and she made a pleasing impression. Her variety and ample range of her tones. Miss Ada Lewis as an accompanist had the admiration of her audience by her good interpretation and touch. A large number went out in the evening to enjoy the music.

PLAINTIFF DOESN'T APPEAR; DEFENDANT GETS DIVORCE. Mrs. Sarah E. Bickle of Milton Junction, who had filed a suit for divorce in Judge Grimm's court, failed to appear when the case was called on Tuesday afternoon. Her non-appearance, however, did not prevent her husband, Thomas Bickle, who had filed a cross bill for divorce on the grounds of desertion, from securing a decree, and a judgment of separation was granted him on the testimony presented. Mrs. Bickle had sued on the grounds of cruelty and non-support.

BATTLED TWO WEEKS IN OPEN LIFE-BOAT ON STORMY ATLANTIC

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bahr, North Pearl Street, Receive Letter From Son-in-Law Telling Of Miraculous Escape.

A few days ago Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bahr of 323 North Pearl street received a letter from their son-in-law, Theodore Olson, telling of his experience and fight for life in an open boat in the Atlantic about the middle of May. Mr. Olson enlisted as first mate on the American schooner Gypsum Empress some time the latter part of April, bound from Pensacola, Fla., for Genoa, Italy.

They had a cargo of rosin and lumber. "Our boat foundered the 17th day of May. We took to the life boat and after two days it capsized in a terrific storm. After a terrible struggle the captain, myself and two of the sailors succeeded in righting the boat. The others, four of them, drowned before our eyes. We lost all our provisions except a few cans of eatables and very little water. We fought the waves for six days, trying to reach some island, but became exhausted from lack of food and exposure. After that we drifted for seven more days, when we were picked up by a British steamer."

Mr. Olson wrote part of the letter in the small boat, fearing sure death either by starvation or drowning. He told his family farewell, thinking by some chance the letter might reach them. After that they were rescued he and them at Gibraltar and from there they expected to leave for home as soon as possible.

Two of Mr. Olson's children are staying with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bahr, while Mrs. Olson and another child are visiting in Friedrickshald, Norway. Mr. Olson, a very well known in Janesville, having been born and lived here practically all her life.

HOLD YOUTH DROVE AUTO WHILE DRUNK

Demands Examination Before Court—Companion Testifies He Has Taken Drink Cured Twice.

Lee Sperry, Fontana, son of a wealthy Marinette man, arrested yesterday morning by Police P. D. Champion and police commission, was formally charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated. Mr. Sperry, a member of the fire and police commission, was formally charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

Sperry pleaded not guilty and his bail was set at $100. It was furnished. The examination was set for July 17, but district attorney Stanley P. Dunwiddie this morning had the date changed to July 26.

It was originally planned to prosecute under city ordinance but later it was decided to make it a state case. The police, early in the morning, arrested Sperry, a rich man's son with too much money. Al Kemmet, former local hotel employee, who was with Sperry when the latter was arrested and who was fined five dollars and costs of seven days in jail, after pleading guilty to intoxication, gave an insight into Sperry's history.

Sperry, not yet twenty-three, he said, has been a habitual drunkard. He has been through the courts at least twice. For the last four days he has been drinking heavily and he was intoxicated when he was driving the big machine.

Between 11:30 o'clock and the time he came to trial the police say Sperry smoked three packages of cigarettes in the station.

Advantage of Dignity. "What are we going to do about Buggins? He won't pay his club dues." "Make him a member of the board of governors. Then maybe he'll be ashamed to see himself posted."—Washington Star.

News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

Beverly Bayne enjoys the distinction of having been starred in the very first picture in which she appeared. It was called "The Loan Shark," and was produced in Chicago.

Miss Bayne has appeared in more than five hundred pictures. She has been co-starred with Francis X. Bushman in the notable screen production of Shakespeare's great love story "Romeo and Juliet," "Pennington's Choice," "Man and His Soul," "The Wall Between," "A Million a Minute," "A Virginia Romance," "A Diplomatic Romance," and the serial "The Great Secret."

Miss Bayne is an athletic young woman and can ride, swim, shoot, drive a motor car or do any of the many feats demanded of the motion picture star. She was born in Minneapolis, but her home has been in Chicago since she was a young girl.

AND THEY SAY SHE'S CHEAP! THAT TALKS! The eccentricities of the screen fan have often been published, but the one that takes the cake, arrived today from the Douglas Fairbanks publicity office.

The story reads that an admirer of Douglas Fairbanks spent $40 in telephone charges, talking to her favorite screen actor in Los Angeles, from Doyce N. J., the home of the film mad maiden. During her five minutes of conversation, Miss Betsy Jennings complained about a poor photograph she had received in the morning's mail and implored Fairbanks to send her a new one immediately by special delivery.

"But why call me from a distance of 3,500 miles," asked Douglas. "I am a stammerer," stuttered the fan, "and if you smoke, chew or drink—and do you receive many letters a day from admirers?"

The eccentricities of the screen fan have often been published, but the one that takes the cake, arrived today from the Douglas Fairbanks publicity office.

Florence Enright, who is so small that she often plays child roles in the productions of the Washington Square Players, in New York, is contemplating a flyer into the movies. Miss Enright's career as actress began in a moving picture, but shortly afterwards she joined the Players and since then she hasn't had time

Paul Willis had the role of a ragged newsboy opposite the little ragged girl who was Vivian Martin. Paul devised the plan of playing newsboy on the street corners in order to test out his make-up. He was careful to pick out rather quiet corners, but the fact that he was able to sell papers without attracting any particular attention gave him assurance that he looked the part.

Everyday Wisdom

POODLE DOGS

There is no way to get a poodle dog out of the home and the heart, once he has entered. Nobody likes another person's poodle dog. If you are a non-poodle-dog-owner you always feel like kicking a poodle when you see one on the street.

How then does a poodle dog get into the home?

We all have times of temptation. Some day we are passing a bird store and there is a window full of poodle dogs, sweet, tously, tumbling poodle dogs. They are as clean as lace. We walk in and put down a five dollar bill and get a poodle.

Also, we buy a strap and attach our new poodle and start home.

About a block from the bird store, our new poodle walks through a mud puddle and turns black. Poodle dogs should be called puddle dogs. Well, think we, we will sell the beast if he is going to be getting black.

But we will never sell him. He is now one of the family. He is in our home. He is in our heart. We will never sell him. We will never chloroform him.

We will never do anything except love him and bathe him.

We will give him 900 baths a week. A white, woolly poodle dog can get black faster after a bath than any other animal or object on the globe.

But they are so lovable there is no way to get them out of the heart and home, once they have set foot over your threshold.

The Real Adventure

A NOVEL

By Henry Kitchell Webster

(Copyright 1916, The Hobbs-Merrill Company)

The sort of gowns she presently began exclaiming over with delight, and ordering put into the heap of possibilities, were horrible enough to have drawn a protest from the wax figures in the window. The more completely the fundamental lines of a frock were disguised with sartorial scroll-saw work, the more successful this lady felt it to be. An ornament to Mrs. Goldsmith did not live up to its possibilities, unless it in turn were decorated with ornaments of its own; like the fleas on the fleas of the dog.

Rose spent a miserable half-hour worrying over these selections of the wife of the principal owner of the show, feeling she ought to put up some sort of light and hardly deterred by the patent faculty of such a course. All the while she kept one eye on the door and prayed for the arrival of John Galbraith.

He came in just as Mrs. Goldsmith finished her task—just when, by a process of stultifying elimination, every possible thing in the store had been discarded and the twelve most utterly hopeless ones—two for each girl—laid aside for purchase. The girls were dispatched to put on the evening frocks first, and were then paraded before the director.

He was a diplomat and he was quiet on his feet. Rose, watching his face very closely, thought that for just a split second she caught a gleam of ineffable horror. But it was gone so quickly she could almost have believed that she had been mistaken. He didn't say much about the costumes, but he said it so promptly and adequately that Mrs. Goldsmith beamed with pride. She sent the girls away to put on the other set—the afternoon frocks; and once more the director's approbation, though laconic, was one hundred per cent pure.

"That's all," he said in sudden dismissal of the sextette. "Rehearsal at eight-thirty."

Five of them scurried like children out of school around behind the set of screens that made an extemporaneous dressing room, and began changing in a mad scramble, hoping to get away and to get their dresses eaten soon enough to enable them to see the whole bill at a movie show before the evening's rehearsal.

But Rose remained hanging about, a couple of paces away from where Galbraith was talking to Mrs. Goldsmith. The only question that remained, he was telling her, was whether Aberdeen, Idaho.—"Last year I suffered from a weakness with pains in my side and back. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did so. After taking one bottle I felt very much better. I have now taken three bottles and feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine I have ever taken and I can recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. PERCY FERGUSON, Aberdeen, Idaho.

THE DESIGNS ON FOREIGN FLAGS MUST MEAN SOMETHING, AFTER ALL.

er her selections were not too—well, too refined, genteel, one might say, for the stage.

He wasn't looking at her as he talked, and presently, as his gaze wandered about the store, it encountered Rose's face. She hadn't prepared it for the encounter, and it wore, hardly veiled, a look of humorous appreciation. His sentence broke, then, completed itself. She turned away, but the next moment he called out to her: "Were you waiting to see me, Dancer?" "I'd like to speak to you a minute," she said, "when you have time."

"All right. Go and change your clothes first," he said.

She found the other girls on the point of departure. But Edna offered to wait for her.

"No, you run along," Rose said. "I've some errands, and I don't feel like seeing a movie tonight, anyway."

Edna looked a little odd about it, but hurried along after the others. A saleswoman—the same one the manager had assigned to Rose, under the misconception which that smart French ulster of hers had created when she came into the store—now came around behind the screen to gather up the frocks the girls had shed.

"Will you please bring me," said Rose, "the Pointe model you showed me before the others came in? I'll try it on."

The saleswoman's manner was different now, and she crumpled something about its being closing time.

"Then, if you'll bring it at once..." said Rose. And the saleswoman went on the errand.

Five minutes later, Galbraith, from staring gloomily at the mournful heap of trouble Mrs. Goldsmith had left on his hands, looked up to confront a vision that made him gasp.

"I wanted you to see if you liked this," said Rose.

"If I like it!" he echoed. "Look here! If you know enough to pick out things like that, why did you let that woman waste everybody's time with junk like this? Why didn't you help her out?"

"I couldn't have done much," Rose said, "even if my offering to do anything hadn't made her angry—and I think it would have. You see, she's got lots of taste, only it's bad. She wasn't bewildered a bit. She knew just what she wanted, and she got it. It's the hardness of those things she likes. And I thought..."

He stared at her with a frown of curiosity. "That's good sense," he said. "But why should you bother to think of it?"

Her color came up perceptibly as she answered. "Why—I want the place to succeed, of course..." Rose turned rather suddenly to the saleswoman. "I wish you'd get that little Empire frock in maize and cornflower," she said. "I'd like Mr. Galbraith to see that, too." And the saleswoman, now placated, bustled away.

"This thing that I've got on," said Rose swiftly, "costs a hundred and fifty dollars, but I know I can copy it for twenty. I can't get the materials exactly, of course, but I can come near enough."

"Will you try this one on, miss?" asked the saleswoman, coming on the scene again with the frock she had been sent for.

"No," said Rose. "Just hold it up." Galbraith admitted it was beautiful, but wasn't overwhelmed at all as he had been by the other.

"It's not quite so much your style, is it? Not drive enough?"

"It isn't for me," said Rose. "It's for Edna Larson to wear in that 'All Alone' number for the sextette."

Galbraith stared at her a moment. Then, "Put on your street things," he said brusquely. "I'll wait."

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Business Proposition. Buzzing around in the back of John Galbraith's mind was an unwelcome protest against the way Rose had just killed her own beauty, with a thick white veil, so nearly opaque that all it let him see of her face was an intermittent gleam of her eyes. The business between them was over, and all she was waiting for was a word of dismissal, to nod him a farewell and go swinging away down the avenue. Still he didn't speak, and she moved a little restlessly. At last: "Do you mind crossing the street?" he asked abruptly. "Then we can talk as we walk along." She must have hesitated, because he added, "It's too cold to stand here." "Of course," she said then. All that had made her hesitate was her surprise over his having made a request instead of giving an order.

"Do you think you'll be able to convince Mrs. Goldsmith," she asked, as they walked down the east side of the avenue together, "that her gowns don't look well on the stage?"

"Probably not," he said. "No, she won't be convinced, and if I know Goldsmith, he'll say his wife's taste is good enough for him. So if we want a change, we've a fight on our hands."

The way he had unconsciously phrased that sentence startled him a little.

"The question is," he went on, "whether they're worth making a fight about. Are they as bad as I think they are?"

"Oh, yes," said Rose. "They're dowdy and fourth-class and ridiculous. Of course I don't know how many people in the audience would know that."

"And I don't care," said John Galbraith, with a flash of intensity that made her look around at him. "That's not a consideration I'll give any weight to. When I put a production under my name, it's the best I can make with what I've got. When I have to take a cynical view and try to get by with bad work because most of the people out in front won't know the difference, I'll go out to my little farm on Long Island and raise garden truck."

"Are They as Bad as I Think They Are?"

There was another momentary silence, for the girl made no comment at all on this statement of his credo. But he felt sure, somehow, that she understood it, and presently he went on speaking.

"Would it be possible, do you think, to get better gowns that would also be cheaper? That argument would bring Goldsmith around in a hurry. It's ridiculous, of course, but that's the trouble with making a production for amateurs. You spend more time fighting them than you do producing the show."

"I don't believe," said Rose, "that you could get better ready-made costumes a lot cheaper; the two or three we might be able to find wouldn't help us much."

"And I suppose," he said dubiously, "it's out of the question getting them any other way than ready made; that is, and cheaper, too."

The only sign of excitement there was in the girl's voice when she answered, was a sort of exaggerated matter-of-factness. "I could design the costumes and pick out the materials," she said, "but we'd have to get a good sewing woman—perhaps more than one—to get them done."

He wasn't greatly surprised. Perhaps the notion that she might suggest something of the sort was responsible for the tentative, dubious way in which he had said he supposed it couldn't be done.

"You've had—experience in designing gowns, have you?" Galbraith asked.

"Only for myself," she admitted. "But I know I can do that part of it. I'm not good at sewing, though"—she reverted to the other part of the plan.

"I'd have to have somebody awfully good, who'd do exactly what I told her."

"Oh, that can be managed," he said a little absently, and at the end of a silence which lasted while they walked a whole block. "I was just figuring out a way to work it," he said, explaining his silence. "I shall tell Goldsmith and Block (Block was the junior partner in the enterprise) that I've got hold of a costume which agrees to deliver twelve costumes satisfactory to me, at an average of, say, twenty per cent less than the ones Mrs. Goldsmith picked out. If they aren't satisfactory, it's the customer's loss and we can buy those that will do as well, at Lessing's. I think that saving will be decisive with them."

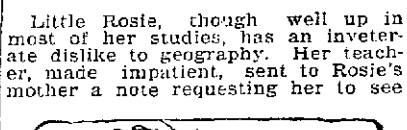

"But do you know a costumer?" Rose asked.

"You're the costumer," said Galbraith. "You design the costumes, buy the fabrics, superintend the making of them. As for the woman you speak of, we'll get the wardrobe mistress at the Globe. I happen to know she's competent, and she's at a loose end just now, because her show is closing when ours opens. You'll buy the fabrics and you'll pay her. And what profit you can make out of the deal, you're entitled to. I'll finance you myself. If they won't take what we show them, why, you'll be out your time and trouble, and I'll be out the price of materials and the woman's labor."

Dinner Stories

Little Rosie, though well up in most of her studies, has an inveterate dislike to geography. Her teacher, Mr. McChesney, sent to Rosie's mother a note requesting her to see that the girl studied her lesson, but the next day showed not the slightest improvement.

"Did your mother read the note, Rosie?" the teacher asked.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the child. "What did she say?"

"My mother said that she didn't know geography, and she got married; my aunt didn't know geography, and she got married; but you know geography, and you didn't get married."

Mrs. Lewis had made it a practice every night just before bedtime to read some verses from the Bible to her little ones. Among those verses which she particularly endeavored to impress on their young minds was, "Whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek turn to him the other one."

The following morning Jack came into the house sobbing bitterly.

"Why, what's the matter?" anxiously queried the mother.

"Sister hit me."

"Have you forgotten about turning the other cheek?"

"No-no, boo-hoo!" wailed Jack, "but I couldn't; she hit me in the middle."

A country youth was driving to the county fair with his sweetheart when they passed a booth where fresh popcorn was for sale.

"My Silas, ain't that nice?" said the girl.

"Ain't what nice?" asked Silas.

"Why, the popcorn; it smells so awfully good," replied the girl.

"It does smell kind of nice," agreed Silas. "I'll drive a little closer so you can get a better smell."

ARTILLERY AND ROADS.

I am not prepared to say that the day of the fixed coast defense guns of our present system is past, but it is the undoubted sentiment among coast artillery officers in our service that we must at least supplement our permanent ones with some suitable type of heavy mobile artillery. Whether these guns should be mounted on flat cars to be transported on a railroad or by motor trucks on the highways is an open question. The latter method would undoubtedly afford a greater degree of mobility, but in the present condition of our highway systems it is almost impossible of attainment.

One of the most important phases of real military preparedness that can possibly be undertaken is that which is going on under the impetus of the good roads movement, now become so general all over the country. A good road, well built, well surfaced and well drained, may be of immense value from a military point of view. In the location of roads, particularly along the shore, special attention to military requirements in the laying out and planning of a highway may prove of incalculable value at some time in the future when that highway becomes a military road.—Captain Arthur Hyde, U. S. A.

TO BUILD AUTOMOBILE HIGHWAYS IN CHINA

Will Connect Shanghai With Woosung, a Deep Water Port.

Arrangements have been made for the construction of a road from Shanghai to Woosung, the deep water port at the point where the Hwangpu discharges into the Yangtze.

As all vessels beyond a certain draft with cargo for Shanghai have to discharge at Woosung, convenient connections between the two are important. A railroad has been in operation for twenty years, but a road passable for motor vehicles has been lacking.

The distance is between ten and fourteen miles, according to the route selected. By the arrangement now made the Hwangpu conservancy board, which is in charge of the maintenance of navigation on the river and receives the proceeds of a customs and surtax levied for that purpose, is to loan from its funds to the public works office of Shanghai the sum of $40,000 Mexican ($23,632 United States currency), repayable in forty annual installments without interest. The remainder of the total cost of the work, estimated at $80,000 Mexican, is to be borne by the conservancy board itself.

It is understood that immediate action on the project has been delayed by an investigation to assure officials that the proposed work will not impair the embankment of the Hwangpu.

The construction of the road will provide an important addition to the very small number of highways in China outside the cities which are available for motor vehicles. The number, however, is slowly increasing.

A concession by an American company for a road in the environs of Peking was obtained recently, and plans are announced also for the construction of a road from Dairen, in the territory on the Kwangtung peninsula leased by Japan, to the summer resort at Eoshaigaura or Star Beach. An appropriation of 100,000 yen ($53,300) has been made for the purpose by the local administration. The road will be forty-eight feet wide and be reserved for rubber tired vehicles.

Report State Crop Conditions Excellent; Grains, Spuds Normal; Acreage Is Increased

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Madison, Wis., July 11.—The joint report of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture issued at Madison today shows an improvement in the condition of all small grains except rye. The corn acreage has been increased six per cent and the acreage of potatoes ten per cent. The report follows:—

Corn.—The acreage of corn has been increased six per cent over last year, making a total acreage this year of 1,791,000 acres, compared to 1,680,000 acres last year. The condition of the crop on July 1 is estimated at 74 per cent, compared with 69 per cent on July 1 last year, from which a total production of 57,000,000 bushels is forecasted. The final estimate for 1916 was 56,340,000 bushels.

The cold wet weather of June greatly retarded the growth of corn and prevented proper cultivation. Nevertheless the crop is about as far advanced as on July 1 last year and the stand is much better than with favorable weather from now on, there is still time to make a good crop. An ever increasing percentage of the Wisconsin corn crop is being placed in silos, of which the state now has nearly 50,000.

Potatoes.—The potato acreage has been increased ten per cent, or from 220,000 acres in 1916 to 242,000 acres in 1917. The principal increase occurred in the northern counties and in territory not in the principal potato belt of the state. The condition on July 1 is 93 per cent, is very high and the yield is estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, compared to 1,000,000 bushels in 1916, or an increase of nearly half a million bushels.

Spring Wheat.—The condition of spring wheat is estimated at 93 per cent, compared to 90 per cent on June 1 and 91 per cent on July 1 last year. The total estimated yield based on the July 1 condition is 1,000,000 bushels, compared to 1,000,000 bushels in 1916, or an increase of about one million bushels.

Oats.—The condition of oats is estimated at 93 per cent compared to 90 per cent on June 1 and 91 per cent on July 1 last year. Total estimated yield 80,000,000 bushels compared to 81,000,000 bushels last year.

Barley.—The condition of barley is estimated at 92 per cent compared to 89 per cent on June 1 and 93 per cent on July 1 last year. Total estimated yield 15,000,000 bushels compared to 15,000,000 bushels last year. The condition of rye is estimated at 88 per cent, compared to 92 per cent on June 1 and 89 per cent on July 1 last year. Total estimated yield 6,000,000 bushels compared to 6,000,000 bushels last year.

The rye crop, which is now coloring, is somewhat lighter than was at first expected. Both the straw and heads are rather short, especially throughout the central district.

Tobacco.—The tobacco acreage has been increased 1 per cent, or from 43,900 acres to 45,300 acres. The condition of the crop is estimated at 50 per cent, compared to a final estimate last year of 50,000,000. The transplanted crop was seriously interfered with by rain, but the work is now completed and the plants are doing well.

Hay.—The conditions of meadows on July 1 is estimated to be 89 per cent, compared to 84 per cent on June 1 and 90 per cent on July 1 last year. The total estimated yield is 4,700,000 tons, compared to 4,501,000 tons last year.

Apples.—The condition of apples on July 1 is estimated at 55 per cent, compared to 88 per cent on June 1 and 79 per cent on July 1 last year. Last year about 12 per cent of the total state crop and 33 per cent of the total United States crop were estimated to be commercial. (1) E. shipped out of county where grown. This year about 14 per cent of the state crop and 37 per cent of the United States crop are estimated tentatively to be "commercial."

Other Crops.—The condition of other crops of lesser importance follows:—

Field peas, 94 per cent. Peas for canning, 95 per cent. Onions, 90 per cent.

Field beans, 90 per cent. Sorghum, 90 per cent. Sorghum cane, 84 per cent. Sugar beets, 93 per cent.

A marked increase has occurred in the acreage planted to sorghum cane. Seed for over three hundred acres has been furnished through the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture. Seed for over six thousand acres of field beans was also furnished. A total of 1,200 acres of sorghum cane have been planted compared to 1,200 acres last year and about 500 acres of which is that of hemp growing, of which it is estimated that 7,000 acres have been planted compared to 1,200 acres last year and about 500 acres of the previous year. The condition of the crop on July 1 is reported at 50 per cent, from which a total production of 200,000 pounds of fiber is forecasted.

Cherries.—The cherry crop of Door and Bayfield counties will be the largest yet produced. Harvesting will probably commence about the middle of July and continue through the first week of August.

Prices.—The first price given below is the average on July 1 this year and the second the average on July 1 last year.

Wisconsin:—Wheat, $2.25 and $1.00 per bushel. Corn $1.49 and 77. Oats, 70 and 40. Potatoes, $2.36 and 77. Hay, $14.50 and $12.90 per ton. Eggs, 28 and 20 cents per dozen.

I. W. W. OUTBREAK FEARED IN IDAHO

Boise, Idaho, July 11.—The State Defense Council in a report to the secretary of war, according to a statement by former Governor Frank R. Gooding, a member of the council, recommends that all citizens of the state organize themselves for the protection of life and property against the activities of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The former governor said a reign of terror has struck northern Idaho and life is being held in the balance. He insisted 2,000 troops are needed in Idaho to keep the government from getting into a position where it would be unable to handle its own problem. Gooding said a number of sheriffs are being threatened that the situation had passed beyond their control.

STATE LABOR LAWS RADICALLY CHANGED BY THE LEGISLATURE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 11.—During the present session of the legislature a number of very important changes were made in the labor laws of Wisconsin. Foremost among these is the amendment of the workmen's compensation law. There is scarcely a section of the compensation act which was not changed. The net effect of the changes made is to liberalize the law and to increase the benefits to injured workmen. The maximum wage basis and the percentage of compensation were not altered, but additional compensation is given for all the more serious injuries. For instance, the old law limited the compensation payable to a workman permanently totally disabled to six times his annual wage. Under the new law a workman so injured receives compensation for fifteen years. Again, the act provides that workmen who sustain multiple injuries as, for instance, when several fingers are cut off, shall receive not merely the payment of compensation for each separate injury, but something additional because of the serious character of the accident which they sustained.

Limits Attorneys' Fees.—The new law also makes important administrative changes in the compensation act. One of the provisions along this line provides that where employers unreasonably delay the payment of compensation, they shall be liable to 10 per cent penalty. Another provision limits the fees which attorneys may charge in compensation cases to 10 per cent of the amount recovered by the injured workman, and not more than $100, unless the industrial commission finds that a higher charge was justified. The law also provides that in cases where minors are employed without permits or at prohibited employments, the compensation which can be recovered shall be trebled.

Another feature of the new compensation law is that these amendments were adopted practically without opposition. Not a vote was cast against the bill in the state senate, and only three in the assembly. This unanimity was secured through the action of the industrial commission in inviting representatives of manufacturers' associations and of trade unions throughout the state to a conference upon the proposed amendments. The bill drawn was accepted as a compromise by both these interests, and hence was accepted without contest.

Greater Insurance Board.—Another important labor measure of the present session was the bill creating a workmen's compensation insurance board to be composed of three members of the industrial commission, the insurance commissioner, and a third member appointed by the governor. This board is charged with the regulation of workmen's compensation insurance rates and classifications. It is one of the first boards of the kind in the country, and is designed to prevent discrimination between employers in their compensation insurance rates. Another bill along the same line increases the reserve which companies writing workmen's compensation insurance must carry, and still another bill provides for stricter regulation of inter-insurance contracts and exchanges. All these bills are designed to protect employers in their dealings with insurance companies, and to prevent companies from operating in Wisconsin whose rates are inadequate and whose resources are very small.

A measure of much promise for the future is the bill passed by the legislature providing for a legislative committee to investigate the question of social insurance, and to report thereon to the next legislature. This committee will consider the problems of old-age pensions and health insurance. The passage of this bill is a fulfillment of the promise contained in the platform of both the republican and democratic parties, and is a demand which has long been voiced by organized labor in this state.

Sliding Inspectors. A considerable number of bills were passed relating to building inspection, fire prevention, and housing. One bill defines more clearly the power of the industrial commission to supervise building operations throughout the state. Another bill transfers the work of fire prevention from the insurance department to the industrial commission. Still another act allows cities to establish city plan commissions, with authority to regulate the work of fire prevention by our residential and business districts, and a fourth bill allows Milwaukee to proceed at once with this work of redividing the city.

Industrial education is another subject upon which the present legislature has done important work. The control of industrial education has been re-organized and vested exclusively in a board of industrial education, composed of representatives of capital and labor appointed by the governor, of the state superintendent and of a member of the industrial commission. The age of attendance at continuation schools has been raised to eighteen years, and authority has been given to cities to increase their appropriation for industrial education.

Child Labor Bill.—Considerable change is also contemplated in the child labor laws of the state by a bill which has passed both houses of the legislature. The bill is intended to remove all possibility of conflict with the federal child labor law, and for this purpose it is proposed to centralize the issuance of child labor permits in the industrial commission. Another provision limits the hours of labor of children to eight hours per day, in conformity with the federal law. Some doubt, however, is expressed as to whether the governor will approve this bill because of the feature that all children up to eighteen years of age are required to secure permits. One of the hard fights of the session of the legislature now closing was over the appropriation of the industrial commission. The finance committee reported a bill allowing the commission only $130,000 per year, while it estimated that it needed $154,000. Due to the support of the commission by both manufacturers and labor unions, however, a bill which $12,000 are appropriated to the commission to deal with special emergencies occasioned by the war.

LEUTENANT WOOD WILL COMMAND EDGERTON PLATOON

Edgerton, July 11.—Sergeant Wood, who for the past several months has been in the city drilling the local platoon, received official notice last evening from General Barry at Chicago, that his application for discharge from the regular army had been granted for the duration of the war so as to enable him to go with the local platoon as first lieutenant of their company. Sergeant Wood went to Chicago this morning, where he will receive his discharge at headquarters. He has been in the regular army for the past twelve years and thoroughly understands the workings of the army, and it is indeed gratifying that he will be able to continue with the local boys. Now that the local platoon as first lieutenant of the national guard, it will be necessary for the boys to go to Stoughton, where they will drill with their company. It has not as yet been determined just what drill and present appearance. The boys will give another dance this evening in their hall in a final effort to swell their company fund. The jazz band will furnish the music for the occasion and cordially invited to attend.

Boy Run Over.—Henry, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Larson, who reside between here and Stoughton, was run over Sunday by a heavy farm wagon and had one of his legs crushed. The little fellow was playing in the road when some of the other children drove up with a team hitched to a wagon, and not seeing the little fellow he was knocked down and the wagon passed over his leg. He was brought to the city, where Dr. Shearer attended to him and later he was taken to the Mercy Hospital at Janesville. At present he is doing nicely.

Mary Conway and brother Joe departed for Rockford, Ill. this morning, where they will visit several days at the home of an aunt.

V. P. Guttry is a Chicago visitor for a few days.

Quite a number of Edgerton people motored to Janesville last evening and attended the carnival which is being held in that city during the week.

Your tires actually cost you less per mile today than they did a few years ago, —provided you buy the right kind of tires.

In the first place, don't buy a nondescript tire that some dealer has a selfish price motive in selling to you.

Buy a tire with a name behind it—a tire, the quality of which must be so good that the reputation of a great company is protected.

United States Tires, with the name of the largest rubber manufacturer in the world behind them, are safe tires to buy.

United States Tires are constructed under an exclusive-licensed vulcanizing process that is patented.

They are honestly built with the best materials that the markets of the world afford.
